SUPER STUDENT

Caitlin Peters is a super student because she quietly goes about her business and takes everything in her stride. She puts a large amount of effort into everything she does and produces some fantastic pieces of work. Caitlin is always eager to learn new things and loves to take on a challenge. She is a kind, caring and considerate classmate. Congratulations Caitlin! You are a very deserving super student!

Jack Lipscombe is a super student because he is a real team player. He always includes others, makes everyone feel welcome and displays a range of positive leadership skills. Jack takes pride in his work and puts a great amount of effort into achieving his goals. He enjoys having a laugh and helps make 56C a fun place to be. Well done Jack. Keep up the great work!

Will Shelton is a super student because he has really stepped up his game. He has pushed himself to work outside of his comfort zone and shown impressive improvements across all areas of his learning. Will happily takes on extra responsibilities and regularly goes out of his way to help around the classroom. He really is super! Well done Will, you are a valued member of the 56C team.

Notes from Mrs Hulonce…

School Review-

We have started our school review process with a meeting with our lovely reviewer, Helen Ramsdale this week. Helen toured our school with Banjo and Bonnie. Helen and I examined school documentation, discussed our improvement journey, NAPLAN results, Attitudes to School survey data, our data analysis processes and planned for the Validation Day on 25th October. On this day the whole panel will attend. Our review team includes:

- Helen Ramsdale- Edvaluate reviewer
- Lindy Sharp- SEIL (DET senior education improvement leader)
- Ev Baluch- review partner (DET education Improvement leader)
- Kath Tanner- review partner (DET Port Fairy Consolidated School Principal)
- Tania Dalton- School representative (Bundarra School Council President)
- Kristy Andrews- School representative (Bundarra School Council Vice President

Here are the upcoming review dates:

Validation Day: 25th October (whole team) with Rai Cullen, Tye O'Connell and Jo Shelton (Team leaders) involved at 2pm.
Fieldwork Day: 20th November (whole team) with Kristy Andrews (SC Vice President)
Panel Day: 21st November (whole team)

On Friday we will be visiting classrooms, observing lessons, speaking with students and staff. This will be loads of fun, seeing teaching and learning in action!

On following review days we will be seeking feedback from students, staff and parents, observing team meetings and talking with staff about their students, teaching practice, curriculum planning, data use and general school issues.

We look forward to the process and the School Strategic Plan development. We thank you for your support and involvement, as always!

2020 Planning-

We are now creating class groupings for 2020. Our Consultative Committee are determining grade structures and how to best use our fantastic human resources to maximize student learning opportunities. Students are being asked to name friends and we will use the usual computer software to process and form class lists. Any parents who have requests are encouraged to come forward and see me before 31st October so we can try to take them into consideration. Thank you.

Have fun!

YOU CAN DO IT!

Getting Along

School Ethos

Motto: Learning Today… For Life Tomorrow
Purpose: Bundarra Primary School is focused on providing a rich, supportive and nurturing environment that enhances learning, personal growth and wellbeing for all students; creates a collaborative and stimulating culture that supports continuous learning for all staff, and informs, involves and embraces our community.
Values: The following values are seen as being central to the life of our school and how members of the school community should conduct themselves:

Respect Teamwork Support

Bundarra's school values are:
Respect
Support
Teamwork

Talk to your child about these. Are they similar to your family values?

This year Bundarra Primary School has used a new program to assess Numeracy skills titled 'Essential Assessment.' Through this program we can pre and post assess student's abilities in line with the Victorian Curriculum.

After each test, student results are automatically compiled advising the teacher of each student's current level and a report of what they understood and misunderstood.

This program allows us to differentiate the curriculum within each area of Maths based on their individual results and supports teachers to develop lessons that cater to every student and their needs.

At the end of each Maths unit teachers are then able to see each students' individual growth in that area. Students also have the opportunity to look at their results and are encouraged to celebrate their successes.

SPORTING SCHOOLS

Sporting Schools will commence Monday the 21st of October. Students wishing to participate must sign up at the office.

RESPECT

A child learns respect when their parents treat them respectfully through their words and actions and when parents expect their child will treat them and others with respect. Children form beliefs about their own self worth, how lovable and valuable they are based on the responses they get from parents both verbally and by their actions. For a child to treat a parent with respect, the parent first needs to respect himself or herself. Parents who respect and value themselves become a positive role model for their child.

Parents can show respect for themselves by:

- Being positive about themselves and others.
- Maintaining a sense of fun and humour to keep things in perspective.
- Developing interests and strengths. If parents feel happy this then passes onto their children.
- Taking time out to renew their strength and patience.
- Remembering we are all human, we all make mistakes and the important thing is we can learn from our mistakes. Also at times having the strength to admit we were wrong and say sorry also teaches children to admit when they are wrong.
- Learning to manage their feelings: anger, guilt, anxiety and deal with issues in constructive ways.
- Listening to children's views and opinions but not allowing children to be verbally or physically abusive to them.

Babies and small children don't naturally show respect to others. It is normal and healthy for young children to be self–centered. Parents can begin to teach young children how to treat parents and others respectfully through their words and actions.

Parents can teach children how to respect others by:

- Showing children you love and value them, which in turn shows children how to care for others. "You feel sad you can't go, come on we'll do something".
- Letting children know you appreciate their efforts teaches children how to appreciate others "Thanks for putting the dishes away".
- Using helpful words that describe the behaviour you want rather than using put downs or disrespectful words. "Pick your clothes up off the floor" is respectful communication, whereas put downs such as "You're a slob" attacks the child rather than the behaviour you want to change.
- Avoiding behaviour that lowers your own dignity or your child's.
- Teaching children social skills, such as, saying good morning, taking turns and being a good sport.
- Setting clear family rules about how people are to be treated. "In this house we speak to one another nicely/respectfully." "In this house we do not hit or hurt others" If children break the rules there is a consequence, which has been discussed prior to an incident. A three-year-old who hits their two-year-old sister may be told "I know you are angry because your sister took your doll but you do not hit. Now you'll have to go and sit by yourself on that cushion for five minutes." If two school age children are hitting one another over the television they may both have to miss out on television for an hour. Consequences will depend on the age of the child and the behaviour.
